

Caravan Rules of the Road

When driving in a group caravan, keeping your eyes on the road and your mind on your driving is of utmost importance.

- Use common sense.....be courteous and obey all traffic laws.
- Use your headlights or daytime running lights.
- Signal all turns well in advance.
- Stay in the caravan lane.
- On the open road, maintain spacing of 1-2 car lengths for each 10 mph.....e.g....60mph----6 car lengths minimum or 12 car lengths maximum.
- Keep the drive in front of you and the driver behind you in sight. Do not allow big gaps in the caravan. This will let outsiders “bust” the caravan, cause confusion for the drivers in both the front and rear, and fail to protect someone who might have a mechanical or other problem.
- If you become separated by a traffic signal, obey the signal and keep the caravan in sight. Use your 2-way radio or cell phone to alert the leader if necessary.
- The leader may stop to allow re-grouping if the caravan is broken unless other plans are announced beforehand. For example, before the drive the leader may say that if the caravan is broken she or he will wait at such and such location, not before.
- Do not pass. Maintain your position in the caravan. Changing position may cause confusion for the other drivers.
- If a stop is necessary, radio the leader or turn on your 4 way flashers to signal your intentions. Pull completely off the road. Pick a place where all can safely stop.

We pride ourselves on fun – but safe and courteous - driving. Help Please keep it that way!
